

ABSTRACT

A system and method for providing power to critical from a plurality of sources. The system provides a means of eliminating harmonics generated by loads from being conducted into the power source(s). Additionally, the system provides power conditioning to sags, 5 surges and spikes produced by incoming sources. Power quality and system status monitoring and control are provided via communication mean such as the Internet.

10132580.doc